Landmark Park, Dothan

June 19-23, 2017

Tracy Pruitt, Dothan City Schools

Dr. Marty Olliff, Troy University Dothan Campus

Join fellow teachers on an exploration of Alabama's farming heritage. Take a fieldtrip to Landmark Park, the state's official museum of agriculture. Dig into Alabama's soils with an archaeology lesson by Raven Christopher from the Alabama Department of Archives and History. Watch the seeds of history grow in Dothan's murals and the Wiregrass Museum of Art. Participants in this institute will experience Alabama's farming heritage first-hand, and they will receive access to primary documents to help them teach what they learn. All participants will leave ready to engage their students in the commemoration of Alabama's 200th birthday!
