

Birmingham: One Place, Many Faces

June 18-21, 2018

Vulcan Park and Museum

Facilitators: Master Teacher Mary Hubbard, Alabama School of Fine Arts (retired), and Stacey Leatherman, Jefferson County Schools

Content Specialist: Pamela Sterne King, UAB

This institute will explore the impact of diverse immigrant groups who settled in and around Birmingham in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. UAB historian and content specialist Pamela Sterne King will share stories of Birmingham's past and lead teachers on a virtual tour of local neighborhoods. Teachers will also tour the Birmingham Museum of Art and Sloss Furnaces to dig into the connections between immigration and the area's industrial heritage. The workshop will be full of fun, cross-curricular activities that speak to Birmingham's colorful, diverse history. Speakers from the Encyclopedia of Alabama, APT, and the Alabama Humanities Foundation will also share expert insight and resources.
