The Lifeblood of North Alabama: The Tennessee River

Florence First United Methodist Church, Florence

June 14-16, 2021

Megan Smith-Keenum, Florence City Schools

Sarah Ingersoll, Florence City Schools

Come join us as we explore the past, present, and future of the lifeblood of the Tennessee Valley as it relates to North Alabama: the Tennessee River. We will delve into the river's use, its ecology, and the conservation efforts currently underway to sustain it for future generations, as well as how we can help make an immediate positive difference. We will take field trips, learn from various local, knowledgeable presenters, and receive worthwhile strategies which can be easily implemented into your classroom. We look forward to an exciting adventure discovering more about the river that is such an integral part of our daily lives.
